

The heart
is the worst place
to hide, its old charge
gives everything
away. There the lie
of the old songs,
for cleft of it
you'd be happy in
the sweet winds
rilling its
aperture.